PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Data Science Intern

Duke Forge, Durham, United States | May 2019 - Aug 2019

- Examined the link between social determinants and risk prediction for hospital admissions, and which assessed whether social determinants affect that risk in a systematic way. [Link]
- Applied methods of machine learning, risk prediction, and assessment of classification bias.
- Programed an interactive dashboard using Plotly (Dash) in order to explore classification bias on different variables.
- Presented results to different stakeholders (researchers, physicians and hospital managers) and maintained dialogue to inform the direction of our analysis.

Assistant Lecturer - 'Psychophysiological Methods'

University of Buenos Aires School of Psychology, Argentina | Jul 2015 - Oct 2018

- Taught undergraduate courses in topics that included: Experimental design, Statistics, electroencephalography (EEG) and skin conductance Response (SCR).
- Prepared course material; including laboratory experiments, lectures and slides, and practice problems.
- Advised three undergraduate theses.

Research Assistant

Behavioral Biology Lab (IByME-CONICET), Buenos Aires, Argentina | Sep 2015 - Aug 2018

- Investigated categorical learning using Electroencephalography registers (ERP) and behavioral data.
- Designed and programmed computerized experiments in Python.
- Implemented a protocol of Electroencephalographic data processing in MATLAB involved epoch rejection and Independent Component Analysis (ICA).
- Used R and SPSS to perform inferential statistical analysis.

Research Intern

Behavioral Biology Lab, IBYME-CONICET, Buenos Aires, Argentina | Aug 2014 - Sep 2015
